Baroque Splendor Everywhere You Go

In the Czech Republic, you will find Baroque almost everywhere you look. No wonder then that the country has chosen the Baroque period as the main theme in its promotion abroad this year. Not only that Prague is the Baroque heart of Europe, nearly each city, town or sometimes even small village in the country has a Baroque monument, be it only a tiny chapel. You will find some examples of Baroque splendor as you leaf through this brochure.

Why MICE organizers love the Czech Republic?

- Because only a few places on Earth can offer such an untouched wealth of culture and history alongside sophisticated global businesses, modern convention centers and congress halls, cutting edge technological infrastructure, style and comfort.
- Because the Czech Republic is a very safe destination and safety is extremely important in today's world. Both large international event attendees and ordinary tourists arrive in the country every day to enjoy pleasant and safe stay.
- Because the country's capital Prague is a real gem. And more gems are scattered across the country which is rather small so it is possible to see most of them in a relatively short time, be it Český Krumlov, Kutná Hora, Telč or Třebíč.
- Because the country is ideally located in the very heart of Europe and is easily reachable from almost everywhere.
- Because you always get good value for your money. The selection of quality venues, accommodation and programs is broad, and the high quality comes at reasonable and competitive prices.

East Moravia an excellent choice for a meeting and relaxation

You will find a unique tourist region in the Czech Republic – East Moravia. For a compact area, it provides a very diverse offer of tourist and spa resorts, exceptional regional gastronomy, live folklore and an extensive offer.

The regional city of Zlín is a functionalistic pearl of modern architecture. Its present day form was significantly affected by the world-renowned shoe making company Bata, which has its roots here. Numerous modern facilities are offered here, such as the Academic Centre of the local university.

The picturesque spa town of Luhačovice lies not far from Zlín. It is a highly sought after destination by all those who want to strengthen their health and it is even popular among participants and organizers of conferences, congresses and company events. It disposes of rooms with a capacity for 100 to 450 participants, plus an offer a high quality accommodation, superior gastronomy, relaxation and adventure activities. Among others, the meeting of the ministers of labour and social affairs of the EU was held here during the period when the Czech Republic chaired the European Union.

Complete services for organizing conferences, congresses, trainings or creative team-building events are also offered by wellness hotels in the untouched nature of the Beskydy Mountain massif. For example the Valachy resort offers two quality hotels with a total capacity of up to 200 beds and 6 fully equipped meeting rooms, of which the largest can hold up to 250 persons. The option to alternate work stress with active rest and relaxation makes this an attractive destination.

The attractiveness of East Moravia is accentuated by the preserved historical facilities, for example the dignified rooms of the Archbishop's chateau in Kroměříž, in which a number of films were created (one of which is Forman's Amadeus), or the rooms in the chateau in Holešov, Napajedla or Bojkovice will shed an unforgettable atmosphere of uniqueness and refinement on each event.

East Moravia also has an extensive offer of accompanying activities and incentive stays. You can enjoy adrenaline adventures such as hot air ballooning, riding scooters or parachute jumping, plus savour a cruise on the Bata Channel, a visit to a wine cellar, sample local cuisine and enjoy live folklore.

The local office for supporting congress tourism will be your assistant in organizing your events in this diverse region.

Santini and Dientzenhofer

Without them, the Czech Baroque would not be what it is.

One peculiarity of the Czech lands, not found anywhere else, is Baroque Gothic, combining both styles into a harmonic whole. The master of this style was Jan Blažej Santini-Aichel. His Church of St. John of Nepomuk on Zelená Hora or the Cathedral of the Assumption of Our Lady in Kutná Hora even made it to the UNESCO World Heritage List.

The Dientzenhofer family was no less brilliant. Amongst the works by Christoph Dientzenhofer and his son, Kilian Ignaz, are, for example, the Church of St. Nicholas in the Lesser Quarter in Prague, considered the most beautiful Baroque church in Prague and one of the most valuable Baroque structures in Europe, or Loreta, a famous pilgrimage site near the Prague Castle.

Matthias Bernard Braun and Ferdinand Maxmilian Brokoff

Matthias Bernard Braun, one of the most prominent late Baroque style sculptors in the region, is best known for his Virtues and Vices - sculptures of 24 women representing the good and the bad in all of us, at the Kuks Hospital in east Bohemia, and for the Bethlehem (Nativity scene), he had chiseled directly into the nearby sandstone rocks.

Ferdinand Maxmilian Brokoff was only twenty-three when he was offered the honor to create statues on the famous Charles Bridge in Prague. The statues, including the most popular Trinity and the so-called Turk, remained his most famous works.

Petr Brandl and Karel Škréta

One of the greatest masters of Baroque painting in the Czech lands was Petr Brandl, the author of many large altar pictures. He painted mainly religious motifs, but also created several outstanding portraits and noble houses were vying for his services. The National Gallery in Prague has an entire hall devoted to his works, including the wonderful Bust of an Apostle from some time before 1725.

Karel Škréta, who lived in Venice for years, brought the grace of Italian Baroque to the Czech lands. In Prague, he painted altarpieces in the Church of Our Lady before Týn and the Church of St. Procopius. The Passion Cycle adorning the Church of St. Nicholas is another of his masterpieces.

Clementinum

Once known as the largest Jesuit college in the world, Clementinum, a vast complex of Baroque halls in downtown Prague is now occupied mostly by the Czech National Library. The most beautiful of all the halls, the Baroque Library with beautiful frescoes and historically valuable globes, houses thousands of theological volumes dating back to 1600. The Meridian Hall was used to determine the exact time of noon using a beam of sunlight coming in through a hole in one of the walls. And in the Clementinum's Astronomical Tower, used as an observatory until the 1930s, meteorological measurements are being taken since 1775.

FOODWAY
CATERING

M O Z A I K A Z Á Ž I T K Ů

Catering

As in most other countries, catering in the Czech Republic has lately become an artisanal affair, creating an experience that involves all senses. When organizing an event here, you will have an enormous choice of expert catering companies that can make your event truly special and memorable.

The vision of FoodWay catering, which was set up in cooperation with the chefs and managers of several Prague restaurants, is gastronomy brought to perfection, professional and imaginative service and the presence of chef Jan Pípal in most of our events. Another star in our team is Lukáš Skála, one of the best European confectioners, and chef Jiří Štíft, a specialist in Asian cuisine.

Our catering is supposed to be not only “something to eat” but a real gastronomic experience. Therefore a significant part of our menu is prepared directly before our guests and we are glad when we can meet their individual requirements.

The FoodWay catering choice means not only original and tasty dishes made with high quality ingredients but also friendly staff and meeting in person with those who set the trends in our gastronomy.
